Milk Galaxy Opens

Buy 58 Nandini milk products 24X7

Mysuru, Feb. 12 (MTY&BCT)- A 24X7 Nandini Milk Parlour, re-christened as Milk Galaxy, was declared open in city this morning. The outlet will supply all 58 Nandini brand milk, bakery and sweet products under one roof.

The outlet is located on old Milk Dairy premises near Air Force Selection Board on Male Mahadeshwara Road (Bannur Road). It is built on a 40X60 space and is the biggest Nandini outlet in city that has space for parking too. It is owned by Mysuru Milk Union Limited (MyMUL).

The Milk Galaxy has been aesthetically designed with a decorated floral space in the front and a wide shopping area. Green grass has been grown in the front and Plaster of Paris statuaries of a calf drinking a cow's milk and a woman milking a cow with a calf tied next to it — typically depicting a rural setting — have been placed.

Over Rs. 75 lakh has been spent on the parlour and its interiors and a big cold storage. The old milk parlour near the new one will be demolished. As it is a 24X7 parlour, space has been provided for the staff to rest. They will work in shifts round-the-clock and toilet facilities have been provided at the outlet.

As a summer special offer, the MyMUL has introduced set curd in food-grade plastic containers weighing 10 kg and 5 kg. While the 10 kg container costs Rs. 550, the 5 kg container is priced at Rs. 285. These are thick set curd and one needs a knife to cut it. It can remain fresh for 15 days. It is natural set curd and no chemical has been used to make it. The concept has been introduced to avoid cut plastic pieces of curd packs falling into food at marriages or any other event where curds are purchased in bulk.

While the parlour is fully owned by MyMUL, the 16-year contract of running and maintaining the outlet has been given to N.V. Dinesh. The contract will be examined once in three years and the rent will be increased on turn-over basis.

While the old Nandini parlour had a turn-over of Rs. 1.20 lakh per day, the MyMUL has not yet fixed the daily and monthly contract amount. They will decide on the amount taking into account the daily and weekly supply and sales, said MyMUL officials.

The outlet was inaugurated by MyMUL Chairman S. Siddegowda. Managing Director D. Ashok and others were present.

Patriarchy and Parenting

As long as the problems bugging the country's masses are not addressed and resolved before they worsen, the top brass in the Government of the day cannot escape getting grilled both in the legislative bodies and in public, going by the graphic portrayal of the proceedings in the media. On reading the reports in the dailies of all hues pitching the administration against the vociferous critics of the Government, people may experience a sense of euphoria in the belief that all be well in foreseeable future, unarguably a false feeling as time has proved beyond doubt. Opinion of those who have the credentials to make remarks that cannot be sidelined points to the worsening unemployment scenario in the nation, particularly the fact that nearly one-third of the country's educated youth are yet to get employed consistent with the training they have been put through for years. More serious is the consequence of letting the rising population of educated youth to remain idle namely their getting wayward, including politicos grabbing the unemployed youth for noisy road shows, criminal acts, causing stress to their parents and so on.

The process of moulding the growing child, including the years at home preceding admission to school, and the role of teachers vested with the task of training their pupils don't seem to be marked by synergy, the essential factor for the teacher to take off smoothly where the parents have their job of parenting.

Given the current ambience in society where everybody has a free run in speech and action, the freedom factor being enjoyed from boyhood stage itself, scope for the parent to talk to their off springs has just shrunk, making the job of parenting that much tricky and tough, not to forget the orientation of the seniors towards life marked by the combo of preferences and prejudices. The ancient scholars must be turning in their graves in the backdrop of present fractured outlook towards their prescription of Mathrudevobhava.... Acharyadevobhava. Further, the popular saying that mother is the first teacher of the child seems to taunt patriarchy.

An academic in Western University has observed that unlike human beings, diverse non-human species practice parenting free from the gender factor. The youth of today are living proof of their brittle relationship with their parents at large. Thus, parenting seems to have been offloaded from the agenda of both mothers and fathers. The positives and negatives thereof are hard to imagine.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

In the year gone by, the average social media user in India scrolled through some 360 feet of content everyday on the net. That's about 1.5 times the height of the Qutub Minar! With so many brands, and content producers, actively targeting and chasing each one of us, it is not surprising that some outstanding work was produced in 2019. Both in India, and globally. Social media campaigns especially, if done right, can stoke, evoke and ignite consumer interest and involvement in many more ways than we ever thought was possible before. Not only that, they can fundamentally change the equation, and relationship, between the consumer and the brand.

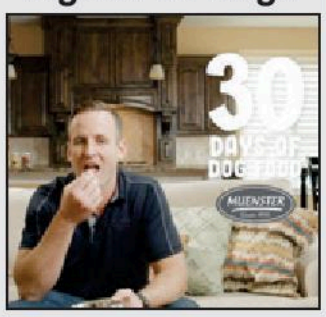
Man eats dog food to prove it is good for dogs



Texas: A dog food company CEO ate nothing but canine chow for a whole month, to show that if it was good enough for him, it's good enough for dogs too.

Mitch Felderhoff, President of Texas-based Muenster Milling, ate nothing but dog food made by his company for 30 days, from Jan. 3 to Feb. 2. Muenster Milling produces high-quality dog foods and treats, horse food, chicken feed, and the executive wanted to demonstrate the quality of the dog food by eating it himself for a month. It wasn't the easiest thing in the world to do, as Felderhoff himself admits, but he found the strength to stick to the diet for the full 30 days.

The dog food executive said that the first week was pretty tough, but by the third week he grew accustomed to the pet food palate to a point where the Ancient Grains, oceanfish, and meatballs became his favorite treats.

Dry leaves in front of houses: Will MCC show the way?

Sir,

This refers to the front page report about the burning of dry leaves by house owners (Star of Mysore dated Feb.8). You also carried a remark attributed to the Mayor stating that notices will be issued to residents who have dry leaves accumulated in their sites and also burn the leaves to get rid of them.

I am a resident of Ramakrishnanagar in city. Twenty years ago when we built our house the MCC encouraged all site owners to plant trees like honge in front of our sites and houses. This was a suggestion which many people took up. We have planted two trees on either side of our gate by the roadside. The trees have now grown and provide welcome shade in the hot season.

During this season the trees shed dry leaves profusely and we are unable to get rid of the leaves. The leaves fly around on the wind all over the road and the compound. During the previous two years the Pourakarmikas who come to collect the daily garbage used to collect the dry leaves on selected days of the week. Now they have stopped doing so saying the work is to be done by someone else. In order to keep the surroundings tidy some of my neighbours have started burning the daily collection of dry leaves.

I would be grateful if MCC can offer a way to collect and dispose off the dry leaves from each house. Threatening people with notices and fines will not help solve a problem that affects everyone's health and the cleanliness of our surroundings.

Future India Talks Series at CFTRI tomorrow

Amitabh Joshi

Mysuru, Feb. 12- To bring scientists of international repute face-to-face with the students of the city, CSIR-CFTRI has been organising public lecture series titled "Future India Talks." The second talk of the series, a lecture on "Why evolution is central to biology and our lives?" will be held on Feb. 13 at Cheluvamba Hall, CFTRI premises here at 11.30 am.

Prof. Amitabh Joshi, Professor, Evolutionary Biology and Organismal Biology, Jawaharlal Nehru Centre for Advanced Scientific Research, Bengaluru, will deliver the lecture.

Evolution is a rather neglected field in India despite the fact that some of the most significant Indian contributions to the growth of biological knowledge have come from our small community of ecologists and evolutionary biologists. There is a tendency in many quarters to dismiss evolutionary biology as "merely a theory" and fundamentally flawed. This talk will address some of these misconceptions about evolution and show that evolutionary biology is a very well-established and verified body of scientific knowledge. It will also highlight some of the significant Indian contributions to the development of evolutionary thinking in recent times.

Dr. KSMS Raghavarao, Director, CSIR-CFTRI, will preside.

State to bring out new sand policy to curb illegal supply and ensure easy availability

Chief Minister B.S. Yediyurappa chairing a meeting in Bengaluru yesterday.

Bengaluru, Feb. 12 (UNI)- The State Government has proposed to bring out a new sand extraction policy for meeting the demand-supply gap. The new sand policy will have an online booking system to supply sand and thus will be one of the several measures with which the Government hopes to regulate and streamline sand availability. These measures were discussed at a meeting chaired by Chief Minister B.S. Yediyurappa in Bengaluru yesterday.

The meeting was held to discuss the new sand policy as shortage of sand has hit development works, including Government projects and construction of houses. A draft policy, taken up at a Cabinet sub-committee meeting, was discussed, and the Chief Minister asked officials to formulate a new sand policy based on the sub-committee's recommendations.

According to a statement from the Chief Minister's Office, the new policy will allow for sand to be booked online. "A Sand Vehicle Tracking System will monitor the movement of vehicles that transport sand," the statement said.

Karnataka needs about 45 million metric tonnes of sand, of which 30 million metric tonnes comes from manufactured sand (M-sand) units. Another 4.5 million tonnes come from rivers and from licenced mining on patta lands. Then, some 2 million tonnes are imported from other States. This leaves the State with a shortfall of 8.5 million tonnes.

"Despite various measures, sand is not being made available on time and this is affecting development works. It is in this backdrop that a policy has been drafted as recommended by a Cabinet sub-committee," the CMO statement said.

The new policy is expected to enable crackdown on illegal sand extraction and ensure availability of sand at lower prices for those in need. The construction industry has been hit following the ban on extraction of sand from rivers. The new policy is also expected to give boost to M-sand units for safeguarding environment. It is also expected to provide subsidy on interest on loans taken to set up M-sand units.

At the meeting, officials also discussed appointing Karnataka State Minerals Corporation Ltd., as the sole agency for extraction of river sand. The agency will appoint contractors for extraction of the sand, which will be stored in Government stockyards. From there, sand will be distributed for sale by the agency.

Chief Secretary T.M. Vijay Bhaskar, Forest, Ecology & Environment Additional Chief Secretary Sandeep Dave, Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Principal Secretary L.K. Atheeq among others were present.

Lok Sabha approves inclusion of Parivara and Talawara into ST list

New Delhi, Feb. 12 (UNI)- The Lok Sabha yesterday approved the Constitution (Scheduled Tribes) Order (Second Amendment) Bill, 2019, granting Scheduled Tribes tag for Parivara and Talawara communities, and Siddis living in Belagavi and Dharwad districts.

The Union Cabinet, headed by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, on March 2018 approved the inclusion of the communities 'Parivara and Talawara' as synonym of 'Nayaka' in the list of STs in Karnataka. The Cabinet also gave its nod to include Siddi community living outside Uttar Kannada or living Belgaum and Dharwad districts in the Scheduled Tribe category

Parivara and Talawara will be synonyms of Nayaka in the list of STs in Karnataka. It will fulfil a long-term demand of the Parivara and Talawara communities for Scheduled Tribe status in Karnataka, an official statement read.

People belonging to the Parivara and Talawara communities will be eligible for an ST certificate and benefits meant for STs.

The Karnataka Government had also recommended inclusion of the Parivara and Talawara communities as synonyms of Nayaka.

The first specification of STs in relation to a particular State or Union Territory is by a notified order of the President, after consultation with the State concerned. Any subsequent inclusion or exclusion and other modifications in the list of Scheduled Tribes can be made only through an Amendment Bill.

"After much effort, the Bill to include Parivara, Talwara and Siddi communities of Karnataka under the ST list has been passed in Parliament with full support of all parties," Mysuru-Kodagu MP Simha told the House yesterday and said that he has fulfilled the promise made to the community.

Although Parivara and Talawara communities are synonym of Nayaka community, they were kept out of the ambit of ST category depriving them of all facilities, he added.

The BJP MP also lauded Karnataka Chief Minister B.S. Yediyurappa for his persistent efforts to ensure these communities get listed under the ST category.

Broken bicycle turns into farm weed remover

Faced with labour shortage, farmers in Mandya, Melukote innovate KUNTE

By Nagaiah Lalanakere

Mandya, Feb.12- Farmers spend over 40 percent of their total cultivation cost on labour alone and as such, the profession is no longer profitable. Hence over 1,00,000 farmers give up farming every year in India. With lack of relevant technology and the cost of labour doubling every year, India's food shortage concerns will become a reality soon.

Studies have found that given an option, majority of farmers in the country would prefer to take up some other work. Poor income, bleak future and stress are the main reasons why they want to give up farming.

If this is one side of a story, the other side paints a picture of hope. At a time when the Government is spending huge funds on agricultural research through scientists, some of our farmers have found their own ways of reducing farming costs through their ingenious methods.

In a novel research, farmers from Mandya have produced agricultural equipment using old and broken bicycles. This equipment which is used to clean weeds has come in handy for farmers, who are distressed by rising farming costs and unremunerative prices for crops. The novel equipment is now being widely used by Mandya farmers for cleaning farms of weed, which has been a bane for them.

Farmers have also displayed their creativity by using their own equipment for tilling as they find hiring of tractors and tillers expensive and unaffordable. Most farmers in Melukote area of Pandavapura Taluk are using this wonder equipment which they have named Kunte in Kannada.

After dismantling the front portion of broken bicycles, they have converted it into a double-edged Kunte which they are now using for weed removal and strengthening bunds in farms. There more than 50 such Kuntes in Melukote alone.

The Kuntes are very helpful for farmers for tilling and have started to replace cattle and manpower. The use of this equipment will help farmers save both money and manpower. The Kuntes, apart from being helpful in removing weeds, also acts as an earth mover as it can push small quantities of loose earth to the bunds. The newly discovered Kuntes are saving a lot of time and money for farmers.

Devaraj, a farmer, said that the Kuntes are becoming popular by the day not only in Melukote but other areas in Mandya district as well. The equipment, apart from being highly cost-effective, is also easy to use. Another farmer said that the equipment has come as a Godsend at a time when the farming community is facing acute labour shortage with the cattle too becoming difficult to find.

70-member New Delhi Legislative Assembly will have 16 first-time MLAs, all from Aam Aadmi Party

New Delhi, Feb. 12 (UNI& Agencies)- The ruling Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) scored a landslide victory in Delhi Assembly elections for the second time in a row as it swept aside both BJP, which was again restricted to a sing le digit, and Congress which could not win a single seat.

AAP won 62 seats in the 70-member Assembly, five seats short of its 2015 tally when it had won 67 seats. The BJP won eight seats, five more than its tally in the previous election. The Congress, which had failed to win a seat in the last election also, saw a dip in its vote percentage.

AAP chief Arvind Kejriwal will take oath on Feb. 16 at Ramlila Maidan in New Delhi. "This is a win for Mother India," Kejriwal told his supporters at a road show. He waved and blew them kisses, and said he "loved the people of Delhi". Prominent faces Manish Sisodia, Raghav Chadha, Atishi, Gopal Rai and Arvind Kejriwal emerged victorious from their respective constituencies.

AAP's victory came in the backdrop of a campaign marked by shrillness and dashed BJP's hopes to form government in the national capital after nearly two decades. The victory, which has raised political stature of Kejriwal, saw BJP raking up Citizenship Amendment Act and the protest at Shaheen Bagh against the legislation which has been continuing for the past over 50 days.

AAP, which had won 54.34 per cent votes in 2015, came close to its past performance and secured 53.57 per cent votes. Arvind Kejriwal will meet Lieutenant Governor Anil Baijal today. The New Delhi Legislative Assembly will have 16 first-time MLAs, all from the Aam Aadmi Party, including Atishi Marlena, Raghav Chadha and Dilip Pandey.

AAP chief Arvind Kejriwal will hold a meeting with the newly elected party MLAs at his residence tomorrow. Notably, the Aam Aadmi Party has emerged victorious on all the 12 seats reserved for SC candidates with the minimum victory margin being almost 12,000 votes.

Here's a scoop for you...

Pelicans, the squat-looking ungainly birds, the least aerodynamic-looking shape, a gait like a Duck's, is the most unimpressive bird to look at. But wait, the Pelican has some unique characters which would put any one into an awe-inspiring mood, apart from its unique Gular pouch (the fold of loose skin like a bag, drooping loose from its lower mandible) which can hold close to 3-4 gallons of water and the flight of this bird.

The flight of the Pelican, a mastery in flight manoeuvring and agility is something seen to be admired. Its powerful take-off from the water surface, getting airborne within a few seconds and gaining altitude before you can spell altitude and all this appearing like in slow motion — an awesome sight to behold.

It is this mastery in flight manoeuvring that gives the Pelican another ability — to scoop-up a pouch full of water, on the wings, effortlessly from the lake or river. These pictures show how the Pelican flies low over the water surface to scoop-up water into its pouch.

This scooping-up of water on the wings is done only by parenting Pelicans to take the water to its nest close by in an island to feed the growing thirsty chicks. In normal times, the Pelican drinks water like any other bird, on the ground, filling beak-full and drinking.

Get Set Count

Four-day Great Backyard Bird Count to begin on Feb. 14

Mysuru, Feb. 12 (BCT)- The Great Backyard Bird Count (GBBC), the world's largest coordinated birding exercise, involving both ornithologists and amateurs alike is back. The 21st edition of GBBC will begin from Valentine's Day (Feb. 14) and end on Feb. 17.

With participants from more than 150 countries, the GBBC is a global event where birders of all skill levels help estimate bird abundance and distribution. Participants count the birds they see for at least 30 minutes on one or more days of the count, they then enter their checklists at the e-Bird website. The data helps compile a snapshot of bird populations that enables scientists to detect population changes over time. The Great Backyard Bird Count was launched in 1988 by the Cornell Lab of Ornithology, New York, USA and since 2013 this event is observed in other countries, including India. There was a Christmas Bird Count in the US in the 80s that kick-started the 'stop hunting, start counting' culture.

In Mysuru, the GBBC will be organised on all four days between 7 am and 10 am starting from Feb. 14 at Lingambudhi Lake. On Feb. 15, GBBC will move to Kukkarahalli Lake, on Feb. 16 at Thippayyanakere and on the last day (Feb. 17) birds will be counted at Karanji Lake.

The count is not restricted to backyards, despite its name. Each volunteer or group choose a nearby location to count birds. Counting can be done while looking out a window, outside in a backyard, or in a nearby park or other outdoor space in urban and rural settings.

According to GBBC organisers in Mysuru, birds are important because they are excellent indicators of the health of our ecosystems. Participating in GBBC is one of the easiest and best ways to help scientists understand how our changing climate may be affecting the world's birdlife.

The GBBC website www.birdcount.in has information on how to participate, how to mark the count location, a downloadable bird checklist, how to identify some tricky bird species as well as links to birding apps. Participants can report just one bird, or groups of them using a best guess at numbers. The online form requires a new checklist for each new day, location, or same location, same day, if counted at a different time of day. It's not only fun to see what is in your own neighbourhood, the count also helps scientists know the health of birds and if there is any decline in numbers.

Air Marshal Nanda Cariappa releases 'War - The Ugly Mistress' in city

Air Marshal Nanda Cariappa is seen releasing the novel "War - The Ugly Mistress" authored by Dr. Lata Muthanna (centre) in city last evening as Mysuru Book Clubs-2015 Founder-President Shubha Sanjay Urs looks on.

Mysuru, Feb.12 (MK&DM)- Air Marshal (Retd.) K.C. Cariappa (Nanda) released Dr. Lata Muthanna's novel "War - The Ugly Mistress" at a programme organised by Mysuru Book Clubs-2015 at Sri Kanteerava Narasimharaja Sports Club (Mysore Sports Club) on Lalitha Mahal Road here last evening.

Speaking on the occasion, Air Marshal Nanda Cariappa said that his profession is related to the book. Pointing out that the book has focussed on Indian Navy, he said that it reminds one of the turbulent times of the war period over 50 years ago.

Noting that the author has vividly explained war scenarios, he said that the book has also highlighted the post-war scenarios.

Recalling his younger days when he dreamt of becoming a pilot, which he realised by joining the Air Force, he said that he was fortunate to get an opportunity to serve the Nation. He further said that everyone should read this book for a better understanding of the serious consequences of war.

Prof. K.C. Belliappa, former Vice-Chancellor of Rajiv Gandhi University, Itanagar, Arunachal Pradesh, who was the chief guest, said one can get a real war experience by reading the book and lauded the author's contribution to literature though she is a doctor by profession.

Dr. Lata Muthanna, a well-known Consulting Physician, said the book owes a lot to serendipity. She stated that when she started to draw the outlines of the narrative, the civil war in Sri Lanka was still on. After the civil war ended, she went to Sri Lanka and spent time with the main character of her book, Angeline, a Singaporean, who as a child, had survived the Second World War. The book literally carries her (Dr. Lata) to different places and various periods of time. It was as though she lived through the wars and felt the fear, anger and desperation of all those who were involved in it, she said. Maintaining that no Government has the right to throw its people into the jaws of death, she said that the world citizenry should never allow that to happen.

The book release was followed by a panel discussion, in which retired Statistician Boverianda Nanjamma and retired engineer Boverianda Chinnappa took part. Both are translators and scholars of Kodava studies.

Sharada Chengappa, a multifaceted personality, received the first copy of the book. Her husband Chengappa was a well-known freedom fighter, who had the good fortune of caring for Mahatma Gandhi when he visited Kodagu.

Mysuru Book Clubs-2015 Founder-President Shubha Sanjay Urs, Chinimamba Desraj Urs, Sita Bhaskar, Nalini, Kavita Bopaiah and others were present at the event.

World Hearing Day

Orientation for expecting mothers at AIISH on Feb. 16

Mysuru, Feb. 12- It is every parent's dream to have a healthy baby and they are ready to do anything for it. The baby in the womb feels and experiences the activities and the environment of the mother which includes the air she breathes, people she talks to, music she listens to, food she eats and the emotions she feels. These experiences influence the overall physical development of the baby in the womb.

Hearing is a crucial sense in such interactions. The development of the ear and hearing functions take place throughout the 9 months and it is important that the expecting mothers learn about few simple yet important tips to ensure normal development of ear and hearing. Normal hearing is important for the child's speech-language, academic and emotional development. In India, 5 to 6 children of every 1,000 children born are with congenital hearing loss making it a high prevalent condition. Though the conditions are unavoidable, precautions during the pregnancy period and appropriate parental education could reduce the occurrence of hearing loss and if not so, at least reduce the consequences of it by providing timely treatment at the earliest.

The All India Institute of Speech and Hearing (AIISH), Mysuru, is a premier institute under the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, Government of India. The Institute strives to minimise the occurrence of hearing loss among the citizens of the country. Therefore, as one of the many noble activities being carried out as part of 'World Hearing Day' celebrations, an orientation programme to the expecting mothers in Mysuru and surrounding places is arranged on Sunday, 16th February, at AIISH between 10.30 am and 12 noon.

The programme aims to provide few simple tips to be followed by expecting mothers to facilitate normal development of the ear and hearing. Lunch will be provided for the participants and one accompanying person.

For registration, contact Department of POCD, AIISH on Ph: 0821-2502312/703 or Mob: 80509-51586, according to a press release from A.R. Keerthi, PRO, AIISH.

Karnataka Legislators' cars to be fitted with GPS

Bengaluru, Feb. 12- The State Legislature, based on recommendation from Bengaluru Police, plans to install Global Positioning Systems (GPS) on official vehicles of sitting and former Legislators, a hitherto unheard of move.

The decision though comes in the wake of allegations that Legislators' vehicles are being used to ferry huge amounts of cash.

Police are already investigating two cases involving the Personal Assistant of former Backward Classes Minister Puttarang Shetty and a staff of incumbent Muzrai Minister Kota Srinivas Poojary.

The two cases date back to January and February last year, when cops seized Rs. 1.1 crore and Rs. 14 lakh reportedly from official vehicles of the two Legislators at Vidhana Soudha, the State Secretariat. Bengaluru Police are demanding GPS systems to avoid such nefarious activity.

The Legislative Council had decided to install GPS systems on all its 38 vehicles, but the move failed due to technical reasons. The fleet includes Innovas, Swift Dzires and Etios.

Two months ago, a tender to install high-end Vehicle Tracking Systems (VTS) was floated by the Council Secretariat. The devices were meant to track location, speed, realtime vehicle position, fuel consumption, direction and cost of travel. However, there were no bids.

Council Chairman Prathap Chandra Shetty blamed "rigid terms and conditions" in tender documents for companies shying away. "We will retender the entire project by relaxing some of the norms," Shetty said. Secretariat officials say the move will enhance productivity of the fleet, cut pilferage and save on operational costs, which have increased due to skyrocketing prices of petrol and diesel.

They say it will also ensure efficiency as the device will provide notifications on trip details to 'owners' and drivers through a mobile app. But the decision may not be implemented any time soon since the brass at the Secretariat has shown little interest. Of the 70 vehicles in its fleet, sources in the Assembly Secretariat say as many as 23 vehicles have been declared "unsafe."

National Deworming Day observed

Mysuru, Feb. 12- Every year, Feb. 10 is observed as National Deworming Day with an aim to eradicate intestinal worms among children in the age group of 1 to 19 years. On this day, deworming activity is carried out in all government and government-aided schools and colleges as well as Anganwadi Centres.

Intestinal worms are parasites which live in the human intestines. Infected people who defecate in the open spread the infection by contaminating the soil. There are three main types of intestinal worms that infect people: roundworm, whipworm and hookworms. These worms depend on the human body for their food and survival and lay thousands of eggs each day. Worm infestation spread from one person to another person through consumption of vegetables, which are not properly washed or cooked, contaminated water and outdoor activities. Children who play in soil often put their hands in their mouth without washing their hands.

Worm infestation leads to a number of negative effects and dangers including loss of nutrients, which leads to malnutrition and anaemia and can also lead to Vitamin A deficiency, diarrhoea, dysentery, loss of appetite, reduced nutritional intake and malabsorption. Children who are infected with worms usually experience lethargy, weight loss, lack of concentration and are less likely to attend School on a regular basis. The infection might in turn affect both physical and mental health of the children.

How to prevent worm infestation: The most important step is to improve hygiene, which includes washing hands before eating and after using toilet, wearing slippers or shoes, keeping the surroundings clean as well as ensuring nails are trimmed regularly.

Treatment: Albendazole is an effective drug and does not have any significant adverse effects. Government distributed Albendazole anti-worm tablets for children at all schools free of cost on Feb.10. The objective of the National Deworming Day is to deworm all preschool and school-age children between the ages of 1 to 19 years in order to improve their overall health, nutritional status, access to education and quality of life.

'Maintain personal hygiene to be free from intestinal worms'

District Rural Children's Health Officer Dr. L. Ravi has urged children and adults to undergo regular deworming and stay healthy. "Intestinal worm infection would adversely affect physical and mental well being in humans by causing malnutrition and anaemia. Maintain personal hygiene and keep your surroundings clean," he said.

He was speaking after inaugurating National Deworming Day programme at Christ Public School, BEML layout in city on Monday, organised by District Administration in association with District Health and Family Welfare Department and Zilla Panchayat.

District Health and Family Welfare Officer Dr. Dr. R. Venkatesh advised the children to take Albendazole tablet once in every six months.

School Principal Fr. V.M. Jinosh, Taluk Health Officer Dr. Mahadev Prasad, District Family Welfare Department Officer Dr. Siraj Ahmad, DDPI Uday Kumar, Women and Child Development CDPO Geethalakshmi and medical officers of Rashtriya Bal Swasthya Karyakram were present. A total of 6,69,247 children from various schools colleges and Anganwadis were administered the drugs.

WORD OF THE DAY

Caelus (Coelus)

Pronunciation: Chie-Loose
Meaning: Personification of sky and heavens.
Origin: Caelus or Coelus was a primal god of the sky in Roman myth and theology, iconography and literature (compare caelum, the Latin word for "sky" or "the heavens", hence English "celestial." The deity's name usually appears in masculine grammatical form when he is conceived of as a male generative force, but the neuter form Caelum is also found as a divine personification. The name of Caelus indicates that he was the Roman counterpart of the Greek god Uranus), who was of major importance in the theogonies of the Greeks. Varro couples him with Terra (Earth) as pater and mater (father and mother), and says that they are "great deities" (dei magni) in the theology of the mysteries at Samothrace. Although Caelus is not known to have had a cult at Rome, not all scholars consider him a Greek import given a Latin name; he has been associated with Summanus, the god of nocturnal thunder, as "purely Roman." Caelus begins to appear regularly in Augustan art and in connection with the cult of Mithras during Imperial era. Vitruvius includes him among celestial gods whose temple-buildings (aedes) should be built open to sky. As a sky god, he became identified with Jupiter, as indicated by an inscription that reads Optimus Maximus Caelus Aeternus.

THE ODD WORD

Cabas

Woman's work basket or handbag.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Chalk and Cheese

Meaning: When two things are very different from each other; almost opposites.
Origin: The first known usage of this phrase comes from John Gower in his Middle English text Confessio Amantis, 139. In this text an untrustworthy shopkeeper was selling chalk under the pretence that it was cheese: 'Lo, how they feignen chalk for chese.' 'And thus ful ofte chalk for cheese he changeth with ful littel cost.' Chalk and Cheese's popularity and longevity probably comes from its sound and alliteration. Many phrases in English have prospered whilst others have failed due to the way saying the words actually sounds. Words that alliterate stick longer in the mind than some of those that don't. In Salisbury, Wiltshire farmers that used to farm on the plains had to farm sheep due to the chalky consistency of the land. Whereas west of the town, the farm land was grassy with green pastures, the farmers there could farm cattle and make cheese. When both sets of farmers attended Salisbury market they never mixed with each other, so local people started to say 'they were like chalk and cheese.'
